A special train to carry the president and his small party to the Michigan city left Washington late in the day. The president left his camp an hour or so earlier by motor and boarded the train about a hundred miles away near the West Virginia border.

Because of the close relation between demands made by some Legion posts and other veterans' organizations for eash redemption at face value of the World War adjusted compensation certificates and administration efforts to hold down government expenses and aid employment, it seemed inevitable the president would go into a detailed discussion of economic conditions.

Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, to the American Legion convention.

Governor Russell and the main body of the Georgia contingent arrived at 4:20 p. m. on the "Dunlap Special" train, named for Georgia's candidate for national commander, Edgar B. Dunlap. Only one face was missing among expected arrivals. Sergeant Alvin York, of Tennessee, who wired that he would be unable to leave until tomorrow.

Met at the Union station by the "shock troops" from Georgia, who have been here for several days working in behalf of Dunlap's candidacy, the delegation marched to the Fort Shelby hotel, where department headquarters is established, with Dunlap in the position of honor. Approximately 100 Georgia Legionnaires were on the train, but other contingents were picked up en route and it was a 12-coach train when it arrived.

Adjutant William A. Sirmon joined the train at Toledo. He has been in charge of advance work for Dunlap.

Gerard Errs in Bitter Attack On Germany, Harris Avers

BY JULIAN HARRIS, News Director, The Constitution.

STUTTGART, Sept. 6 .- (By Mail.) - "There seems to be in all nations an overproduction of everything except facts and understanding. The speaker was Wolffgang Kruger, the able and courteous secretary of the German Employers' Union, Vereinigung Der Deutschen Arbeitge-berverbaende, whom I interviewed while in Berlin. Today his words came to mind as I finished reading an article printed in Paris a few days ago-a statement made by James W. Gerard, formerly ambassador to Germany, to a reporter of the European edition of the New York Herald.

After referring to the money spent by Germany on stadiums, stations, parks, swimming pools, and housing, Mr. Gerard said, according to the New York Herald (European edition): "Who won the war any-way? Since 1924, Germany has exaggeration of 3,500,000,000 marks, if one accepts as correct the reply made by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, when questioned on this subject in the house of commons in July of this year. Mr. Snowden, asked by a member of the house to state what amounts Germany has paid since the signing of the peace treaty, and what sums she has received in foreign loans, replied:

During the period from the Ar-

foreign loans, replied:

During the period from the Armistice until the Dawes plan came into force on September 1, 1924, the German payments under the plan amounted to about 370 million pounds sterling (7,400,000,000 marks), in foreign currency or kind. (Counting one pound as 20 gold marks). Germany did not receive any large foreign loan during this period, but did receive a large sum from the sale of the mark.

From the time the Dawes plan has received about 360 million pounds sterling (7.200,000,000 marks) in long-term foreign loans. Further, Germany has rereceived short-term credits, the amount of which was estimated unofficially about a year ago at 360 millions (7,200,000,000 marks). A large part of those short-term credits has since been withdrawn.

withdrawn.

According to Mr. Snowden, Germany has borrowed since 1924, not 18,000,000,000 marks as asserted by Mr. Gerard, but 14,400,000,000 marks, or 3,500,000,000 marks (nearly $900,-000,000) less than the amount named by the former ambassador. And this year, up to the middle of July, a large part of the short-term credits were withdrawn. The amount of these withdrawals is (unofficially) estimated at from 3,000,000,000 to 5,000,-000,000, figures which I quote under reservations.

At any rate, it is obvious that if Mr. Snowden and other financial experts are acquainted with the German figures, Mr. Gerard is in error. According to Mr. Snowden, Germany has paid, since the Armistice, 17,400.000,000 marks (about $4.350,000,000) and borrowed 14,400,000,000 marks (about $3,600,000,000) less the amount of short-term credit withdrawals. It is interesting in connection with the foregoing figures, to mention the estimate of Germany's payments made by a German newspaper. The sum is placed at 50.000,000,000 marks, a total reached by including "the German goods and money which were lost in foreign Diring the period from the Armistics multil the Dauses plant and content of the perist are acquainted with the German between the perist are acquainted with the German between the perist are acquainted with the German between to about 370 million pounds sterling (7.400.0000 marks), in foreign currency or kind. After repeal of the farm board act as a means for agricultural relief, Shouse placed reduction of what he saw as extortionate tariffs. He said machinery could be devised whereby "a profitable domestic price for the stable commodities can be maintained and the exporting surplus disposed of at the expense of the crop benefitted."

Local regulation was set up as the way to correct alleged abuses by utilities. If it is necessary for the government, to produce power to reserve the sources of power for the people, then it was advocated that such be done. "The open saloon," Shouse said. Big Families' Reward.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon of both days prizes will be awarded in front of the grand stand. The sum of $50 will go to the largest family that has come to the fair in the same car. Members of the parties in the largest family contest must be members of the immediate family.

There will be a prize of $25 for the Ford or Chevrolet that has come from the farthest point to the fair and Rain or shine, as the circus posters say, you can bet your bottom dollar that on at least two days of the Southeastern Fair, from miles around they'll come to town: Pa. Ma and Sister Ann, and that, literally, they'll be squeezed and packed and piled, one on the other, in the old tin can until the Ford or Chevry can hold no more.

Everything in the way of a Ford or Chevrolet automobile that can navigate under its own power is expected to chug or wheeze its way into the fair grounds. The older the vintage, the better. Literally, the more to the car, the merrier.

"It will be the greatest assemblage, ladies and gentlemen," General Manager Oscar Mills might say, "the greatest assemblage of new and old modern and freakish, cut-down and run down and glued-together Fords and Chevrolets ever gathered together inside the boundary lines of any one fair ground.

It is needless to say that only Fords will be admitted free and permitted to compete for prizes on "Ford day" and only Chevrolets on "Chevrolet day."

Outside of the humorous aspect of a gathering of automobiles of ancient vintage, the special Ford and Chevrolets are expected by Southeastern Fair Association executives to serve the purpose of bringing together from any parts of the southeast families famed for their numerical strength.

The oldest of cars will be serviced into running order and the largest of families will make their plans for a day of fun and the two days will be occasions when the younger models simply will not be in the running.

Expect Big Attendance.

"Ford day," it is announced, has been set for Tuesday, October 6, and "Chevrolet day" for Friday, October 9. The Ford contest will supplement what otherwise is known as "sports day" and the Chevrolet contest will share honors with, or possibly overshadow, the programs for "Military day" and "Press day." also scheduled for Friday, October 9.

Briefly, the plans for both "Ford day" and "Chevrolet day" are that on Tuesday every Ford automobile and on Friday every Chevrolet automobile will be admitted to the fair grounds without the customary charge of 59 cents for automobiles. There in the running.

DENMARK IS CHEERFUL

IN FACE OF DEPRESSION

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 20.—(A)—When economic depression touches Denmark, this country of farmers sends out more bacon.

Bacon is Denmark's principal export, with butter and eggs next. It has helped her stave off the effects of the present world economic situation.

Affected more than a year later than the rest of Europe, Denmark is without fear for her financial stability, unless the depression lasts long.

Her public finances are in excellent shape. Her taxation is considered moderate.

the co-operative attends to disposal of his products.

Fully one-third of this little kingdom of 3,500,000 persons is directly identified with farming, while at least another third depends upon agriculture by shipping, distributing and marketing farm produce.

As an example of Denmark's infensified production to equalize the drop in prices, she exported 470,000,000 pounds of bacon during the first seven months of 1931, as compared with 353,000,000 pounds during the same period in 1930.

Even so, said Ernst Meyer, president of the Merchants' Guild, the income was diminished.

Depression Gives Birth

To New Skin Disease

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(UP) Economic depression has given birth to a disease called dermatalgia, or neuralgia of the skin, according to Dr. Charles F. Pabst, New York dermatologist.

The spread of the disease, which is caused by derangement of the nerve supply brought on by worry, fear and brooding, is comparable to the increase in skin ailments which followed the World War. Dr. Pabst said.

"The man who still has a job," he said, "should stop worrying about it because he may bring on an attack of dermatalgia, and the man without a job should stop worrying or he will not only be out of a job but have an attack of dermatalgia to boot."

Whether it was a wise or foolish thing to do only the future can tell, but for the present it is something which France is using with telling ef-fect in her efforts to prevent a cessa-tion of reparation payments.

But to return to the question of facts and figures for a moment: The United States was surprised to learn that Germany was tottering financially. Two reasons for this amazecially. Two reasons for this amazement were, first, the apparent optimism of German bankers and manufacturers, who needed money; second, reports similar to that made by S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, as of December, 1928—his fourth annual report. Mr. Bouton, the Baltimore Sun's Berlin correspondent, whom I quoted in a previous article, recently referred to the Gilbert report as a glaring example of a chronic and unreflecting optimism and bad and inadequate reporting.

"When I talked with Mr. Bouton,

The second note was dispatched to Japan following a statement of Foreign Minister Wang that the nationalist government was "greatly execised by the unwarranted action of the Japanese troops."

The foreign minister said his government was prepared to "lay all facts before the world, so that it could be judged which party was the aggressor."

When I talked with Mr. Bouton, whose attitude toward figures does not partake of his political bias in factor of the opposition to the government, he referred to the amazement shown by Americans when they were finally convinced Germany was about to become bankrupt, and said:

"As I wrote in an article for the Baltimore Sun, a few days before the Paris and London conferences, such aggressor."

Wild Turkeys Galore In Southwest Georgia Trophy Offered

In Southwest Georgia
THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 20.
Sportsmen of Thomas county who have been keeping an eye out as to the frospects for game this fall and winter report the crop of wild turkeys is probably the largest known in the southwest Georgia-north Florida region for several decades. The dry weather last spring and early summer was particularly favorable for hatching out and rearing of the young birds. Turkeys are exceedingly delicate birds when very small, but after they get one-quarter to one-half grown they are as hardy as they formerly were delicate, and the weather has been just suited to take them over the dangerous period of their young lives.

Tide's Second Team of 1930 To Be Strong Contender--McGill Dean Bests Caldwell in Slab Duel To Give Buffs Third Victory

Ralph McGill's Football Review

Editor's Note: This is the seventh of a series of articles by Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, dealing with the prospects of Southern conference football teams for the coming season. He is now Constitution readers first-hand "dope" on the various teams.

Tide's 'Second Team' Will Be Dangerous; Loss of Over Two Games Improbable.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Sept. 20.—"How," said Hank Crisp, director of athletics here where the "Tusks are looser" (Of course you saw "Animal Crackers") - "How do you figure a second team can go anywhere in Southern conference foot-

"You are taking the question right away from us," said Frank Thomas, head coach. "The critics amaze me. They are wondering what Tennessee will do because three or four stars were lost. They say that a new man or two makes Vanderbilt a bit doubtful. Tulane is strong, but there is no telling what they will do, according to the newspapers.

"But," continued Thomas, fanning briskly because the fumes from the paper mill were filling the air with an odor reminiscent of an old and neglected cabbage patch, "here is Alabama with a new system of play and with an entire team wiped out, and yet where do you guys figure us? Why right up at the top," said Frank Thomas, answering his own question.

Crisp and Thomas think they will be lucky to get by without losing more than three games. They both figure an even break with Florida and Kentucky, and less than that with Vanderbilt and Tennessee. There is quite a lot in what the two coaches have to say. Alabama's might be summed up briefly as follows:

The 1930 eleven, coached by Wallace Wade, won the Southern championship and the Rose Bowl game at Pasedena on New Year's

From the line went Moore and Elmore at ends, Clements and Sington at tackles, Howard and Miller at guards and Ebert at Rarely has a championship team been so devastated. In the spring Frank Thomas, one of the south's most capable coaches, was signed to replace Wade. He installed the Notre Dame system. No Alabama team has ever used it. It is brand new this fall. Such a condition would naturally cause the Tide to be rated far down the list.

Tide Still Formidable.

And yet this reporter is unwilling to believe the Tide will lose more than two games, thinks the Tide has a great chance to lose but one, and that it might, given a few good breaks, emerge without any.

There is a lot of power here at Tuscaloosa. The 1930 foot-ball team had one of the finest second teams any eleven ever-had. It played but little in the Vanderbilt and Georgia games, but in the others, especially the Washington State game, it played offensively it has a lot to learn. And they are getting every opportunity. The coaching staff of Thomas, Crisp, Donoghue and Drew is giving the boys more unadulterated work than most teams are getting.

Bruce Morgan, with a 67, was medalist for the afternoon. Tom Stewart, of Forrest Hills, was second with

The Old Capstone Cry.

"Blocking" is the cry. And what a tongue-lashing the backs get when they don't block. Their scrimmage, the big one of last week, saw some of the boys lose as much as 10 pounds in weight. But they are used to hard work. They like Thomas and the new system.

As "Ears" Whitworth, the guard who kicked a field goal the Washington State game, said, "We don't know what we in the Washington State game, said, "We don't know what we will do, but we do know that the other boys will know they have been in a football game when they get finished."
Thomas has wrought some changes in his backfield. "Hurry" Cain the fullback of last season, is running at a half. And running well. scrimmages of last week saw him running much better than Thomas

Dave Cochrane, a senior who played on the scrubs last season, has been placed on the varsity at halfback, and Leon Long, who played enough to win two letters, is also running at a Hillman Holley, who played in most games last fall, is at the quarterback position, but Cain will call signals in the huddle. Buck Hughes, a sophomore fullback, is attracting a lot of attention with his power. And Howard Chappell, a sophomore halfback, is a great passer and

Not So Green At That.

Has anything occurred to you? Have you noticed that all the firststring backfield men have been playing long enough to get some ex-

That is the secret of why it is difficult to rate the Crimson Tide far down in the list. The Red Regiment which marched on to the championship in 1930—left some he-men behind.

Going into the line one finds Ben Smith, who played lots last seaone end and Autrey Dotherow, with like experience, at the other. The tackles are Newton Godfree, letterman; Max Jackson, letterman, and Troy Barker, sophomore. They weigh close to the 200-pound mark.

"Ears" Whitworth, veteran; Bill Sanford, letterman, and three sophores, Sims, Frye and Huppke, each weighing more than 190, make up the present list of guards.

Captain Sharpe, at center, is a senior with two football letters. Willis Hewes, 200-pound sophomore, will be the No. 2 men. Holley, Cain and Chappell pass well. Cain, Holley and Hughes can punt.

Extra Point Will Come Easy.

"I feel very confident of the point after touchdown," said Frank 'If some one will explain to me how to make the six points

And there were two can can run hard enough to crack most any ine. There will be no two backs who will crack in there any harder than Long and Hughes. And Cain can, if he is needed, hit a line himself.

And in the list of backs one should not fail to include John Tucker, letterman last year, who is a great blocker. There are a lot of other big men around: Jim Dildy, 203-pound tackle; Kirkland, a big guard; Foy Leach, soph end; Bob Seawell, half-back; Bill Joyce, half; Tilden Campbell, another back, are all good men from the sophomore class. Joyce is the conference quarter-mile champion, running the distance in 49 seconds flat.

Another of Those Brown Boys.

And there is still another-Fred Brown, brother of Johnny Mack Brown, Alabama star of some years ago-and now a cinema star of note Fred is the last of the Brown brothers. Before him have been Red, Harvey, Bill and Johnny Mack. And there is every indication that the fifth—and last of the Browns—will make the team as did his brothers before him.

Thomas has speeded up the team. "They don't shift as prettily as some of the lighter, nimbler boys,"

Meet 'Ditty' Murray, Champion Substitute IS BIG FEATURE

OPEN SATURDAY Having Filled in Capably for Three Years, 160-Pound Tech Center Deserves Appellation.

By Jimmy Jones.

For three long years Ditty Murray, Atlanta boy, has been the scrub center at Georgia Tech. He understudied Peter Pund and Rusk. Now he is understudying Monk Neblett. This is the last year that Ditty could possibly make the Tech varsity for it is his last year at Tech. And Ditty wants to make his letter very, very badly this year.

Murray, although not brawny of stature, has always been a very aggressive center. And he has a genuine love for football.

Mack Tharpe, who coached Ditty on the got the chance. But Pund was too the Grey Devils, has this to say of him:

"He deserves some sort of medal for his faithful service. I don't know what kind of a medal could be given him, but he is undoubtedly the champion substitute of the world."

Murray is known at Georgia Tech as a fighter. Day in and day out, he gives his best at center. He weighs only about 160 pounds, and in past years all the Tech contents here all t Murray, although not brawny of stature, has always been a very

Murray is known at Georgia Tech as a fighter. Day in and day out, he gives his best at center. He weighs only about 160 pounds, and in past years all the Tech centers have made Ditty look very small on the scales.

But this year the other centers, Neblett and Pool, are not a great deal heavier, and Ditty's loyal soul has been inspired by ambition to play some in the middle of that Tech line.

If Peter Pund or Harold Rusk both had been incapacitated in 1928, Ditty

No more popular scrub ever played for Tech. The boys all like him, and are pulling for him. Coach Alexander says that Murray is looking better than he has ever looked, and that if he keeps up his good work he's bound to see some service this fall.

And if he does, Ditty Murray will feel that those years of acting as a shock absorber to big varsity pivot men will have been rewarded.

A hard-working soul is Mr. Murray. All the Peter Fund of Harold Russ both had been incapacitated in 1928, Ditty fellow the Murray probably would have stepped in and made of himself a hero. His coaches say that he probably would have played a whale of a game had

Through the midnight jungle in an unknown corner of darkest Africa, a savage, tawny lion moved silently. The great beast slunk cautiously among the shadows, avoiding the moonlit open spaces. This sleek, fair-skinned creature carried a stout club. A short, sheathed knife was suspended from a shoulder belt. Another belt, supporting a pouch hanging at its right hip and the loin cloth, glittered in the moonlight as though encrusted with virgin gold. A huge buckle that clasped the belt sparkled with many precious stones. Closer and closer crept Numa, the lion, to his intended victim.

have been half out of your seat for several minutes, yelling quite lustily for a moving picture horse to win a moving picture race. For we solemnly assure you that everyone else in the house will be doing the same thing. We did house will be doing the same thing. We did.

Tommy Boy was born in the mud. Ernest Torrence owns a stock farm in Kentucky and raises thoroughbreds for racing stables. And Tommy Boy's dam was Southern Queen, a race horse with a great record, but with a hysterical aversion to running in horse with a great record, but with a hysterical aversion to running in a hysterical aversion to running in the mud. It rained, and Tommy Boy was born.

For two and a half years Tommy Boy was passed from owner to owner, until Lew Cody, a sure-thing gambler, finally got him. He won a few races by doping him, and then, some of his crooked pals, believing Cody had doublecrossed them, Cody was "knocked off." Just before he died, Cody gave Tommy Boy to his erstwhile lady-fair, Madge Evans, who, M.-G.-M. would have us believe, was a crookess with a heart of gold. She took Tommy Boy back to Ernest Torrance's farm, and there he was reconditioned and entered in the Kentucky Derby. And when Tommy Boy fights a crooked jockey who is trying to hold him in and beats a classy field to the finish you, and everybody in your family, is going to get up and yell, "Come in and beats a classy field to she finish you, and everybody in your family, is going to get up and yell, "Come on, Tommy Boy!"

The story is really quite simple. There is very little in it that strains the credulity. The director, whoever he was, was wise beyond the usual order. He warned Torrance not to attempt a southern accent. He warned Cody not to leer. He let Madge Evans smile. And he made the love story quite incidental. Tommy Boy is, in our opinion, a great actor.

In a recent issue of a high-grade monthly magazine there appeared an article captioned "Old Age Intestate," written anonymously. It is a brutally frank discussion of the problem of the parent making her beine with a married daughter. And while one camot question the truth of many of the pronouncements, one can deprecate the unabashed brutality of their presentation. I quote a few of the sentences from the first part of the article:

"Harmony is gone. Rest is vanished. My husband and I have no longer any time together unless we leave the house. We have no leisure. We have no time for our children except for the necessary physical duties, and even those are done in confusion. The children have no schedule and we make ... One is that I am my mother's child ... The second is that ... her habit of authority, together with her need for activity, combine to fill our days with a thousand irritations. ... For all of this I do not blame my mother. She is not the horrible person that these statesments would seem to make her. On the contrary she is an immensely cheerful, generous sort of woman. But she is old."

The argument of the article being that every woman old and widowed should have made her plans while she was yet young to spend her last days in an institution, if by chance she should come to be dependent on her children. There is something unspeakably revolting in the frankness of the tone of it. There is something hard and heathenish in the writer's view-

There are a few relationships in life in which sentiment plays a blg part. Common sense, of course, must be the basis for any normal relationship, but over and above that there should be a sentimental element. And if it doesn't obtain between mother and daughter, the net result is tragic in the extreme.

"Six months ago I ceased to be anything like the master of my fate. My mother came to live with me. Before then, my household of four had lived in harmony. My husband and I had found our home restful. . . . I do not mean to imply, even for contrast, that we had reached perfection. But there was nothing present that menaced the foundations of our happiness.

Public Utilities-40th WHAT is the most pressing problem confronting the country today? Some critics are trying to make the public believe it is Power, the stricter regulation of Public Utilities ... but a recent survey conducted by the National Economic League whose Executive Council is listed below, shows there are 39 other problems considered more important. A ballot sent by the League to 5,000 among the nation's best informed and most public spirited citizens did not result in a vote for Public Utilities as being a paramount problem of 1931, but instead it ranked them only FORTIETH in importance.

Some of the issues, in order of their importance according to

1. Prohibition 2. Administration of Justice

the votes they received, follow:

3. Lawlessness, Disrespect for Law 4. Unemployment, Economic Stabilization

5. Law Enforcement 6. Crime

7. World Court and extended.

8. Taxation 9. World Peace

11. Agriculture, Farm Relief 35. Motor Traffic Regulation 40. PUBLIC UTILITIES

Power is not an important issue because the bulk of the people at large are well pleased with their electric and gas utility services.

Associated Customers Are Security Holders This is the case in the Associated System which serves customers in 26 states. About half of

These services are being continually improved its 231,055 security holders are also users of Associated gas and electricity, indicating the general favor in which the System is held. This satisfaction arises from the System's rec-
